AMERICAN ENGLISH

legal: connected with the law couple: two people who are married or in a romantic or sexual relationship initiate: to make something begin proceedings: the process of using a court to settle a disagreement or to deal with a complaint vary: to change or be different according to the situation perceive: to understand or think of something in a particular way

Legal tourism, a practice of bringing a case to court in whatever jurisdiction is deemed most favourable, has increased markedly over the past ten years. It is particularly noticeable in two areas of law: divorce and libel. Although a couple may both be citizens of a certain country, and may meet and marry and live in that country, there is little to stop the aggrieved party (the spouse who wants the divorce) from initiating legal proceedings wherever that person thinks the case is most likely to succeed. International legal disputes tend to be expensive, in the case of very rich people (or, as the jargon has it, 'high-net-worth individuals'), the gamble can prove worthwhile.

The laws surrounding marriage break-up vary widely around the world, some lawyers and their wealthy clients shop around. English divorce laws are perceived to favour the less wealthy spouse, usually the wife, and the English courts are seeing more and more divorces in which neither party has a strong connection to England. The system is being abused.

Correct the underlined phrases if necessary in this description of African safaris. Some phrases are correct.

Due to the steep drop in the numbers of big game (i.e. elephant, rhino, lion), hunt organizers had to take drastic action in the 1960s and 1970s. Since local extinctions gathered pace, they saw their livelihoods at risk. In order to preserve the habitat, they pressed for legal changes, such that the establishment of national parks. Meanwhile as the decline in big game hunting came the increase in non-lethal pursuits. The purpose of these journeys was to track and shoot the animals, but no longer with rifles. These 'camera safaris' began as an organized activity in Kenya and South Africa. As 2010 the industry was valued globally at hundreds of millions of dollars. This branch of eco-tourism, carried on mostly at the level of small-scale businesses, has larger political ramifications in that governments and local authorities may choose to support it, for example, by building up the infrastructure, providing financial encouragement, producing tourist material, and so on.
